The teacher stood before his class and was ready to give the final test paper to students. “I know how hard you worked to 13 for this test,” he said. “But if you choose not to take the test, you can still get a B.”

Many students jumped up 14 to thank the teacher and left the classroom. The teacher looked at the other students and said, “Does anybody else want to get a B? This is the last 15 I ask this question.” Two more students decided to go.

test paper

Finally, seven students 16 at their seats. The teacher then handed out the paper to them. There were only three sentences on the paper: Congratulations (祝贺)! You got an A in this class. Keep believing in yourself.

I never had a teacher like that but I think it is a 17 that any teacher could and should give. Students who do not have confidence (自信) are B students at most.

The same is 18 for students in real life. The A students usually believe in themselves. They learn life’s lessons, from study or from everyday life, and 19 better people.

We should know that we have some limits (局限性). However, we should also know that doesn't mean we can't do anything or learn to be anyone. Sir Edmund Hillary, the first person to reach the top of Mount Everest said, "It's not the mountain we 20 over but ourselves."

Bowie's mother called him a picky (挑剔的) eater. He would eat only cheese sandwiches and tomato soup.

One day, Bowie's mother told him, "Your father and I will have a meeting tomorrow evening. You can play at Ashwin's home and stay for dinner."

"What?" Bowie looked sad and even cried. Bowie liked playing with his friend Ashwin, but there were no cheese sandwiches at Ashwin's home.

"I know you are picky, but you can try new things. You can't eat sandwiches and tomato soup forever. I hope you will try something new at Ashwin's home. It's not polite to say 'no' when someone cooks for you," his mother said.

The next day, Bowie followed Ashwin into his home, and they played together for some time. "Why do you keep checking the time?" Ashwin asked.

"I just wanted to know if it was time for dinner," Bowie said.

"Sure! Smell it! Yummy!" Ashwin said.

Dinner was ready. But Bowie walked very slowly to his seat. He worried about the food. The food on the table was much more colorful than his usual dinner. He had a special feeling for this food. How could he eat this meal?

"Try it," Ashwin's mother said.

Bowie wished he could say no, but he knew his mother hoped he would try it. He took a little rice and put it in his mouth. "Wow, it's delicious!" Bowie said.

After Bowie went home, he told his mother the food was delicious. She was happy that Bowie was polite and open to trying new food. "Is it possible (可能的) that my little picky eater is gone forever?" she asked. "I think so!" Bowie smiled.

24. At first, Bowie felt _____ to have dinner at Ashwin's home.
 A. sad                      B. excited                      C. bored                      D. surprised
25. Bowie walked very slowly to his seat because _____.
 A. he kept checking the time                      B. he was worried about his food
 C. he wanted to go with Ashwin                      D. his parents would come very soon
26. What can we know about Bowie?
 A. He often asks his mother for help.
 B. He doesn't get on well with Ashwin.
 C. He may not be a picky eater any more.
 D. He likes rice better than cheese sandwiches.

C

Do you play with your phone before bedtime? It may be better to read a book. A US study says that using electronic (电子的) screens at night can make us sleep badly.

In the evening, our bodies make melatonin (褪黑激素). Melatonin makes us feel sleepy and relaxed. It is an important part of our sleep cycle (周期). But the electronic screens stop that cycle from working as usual.

Why? Because phones, computers and TVs make blue light. Blue light stops our bodies from making melatonin. Even just a little bit of blue light can change our sleep cycles. Eight minutes of blue light can keep your brain (大脑) "working" for another hour, according to the study. Even if you fall asleep, you may have lots of dreams, stopping your brain from resting well.

It's even worse if you play an exciting game before bedtime. Playing games can make our hearts race, so we have a harder time falling asleep. Then, after we fall asleep, we get less (更少的) "deep sleep", so people will be in poor health.

Don't worry. Here are some tips (建议) for you to get a good night's sleep:

- Do something relaxing every night. Take a warm shower (淋浴) or read a book.
- Sleep in a dark, quiet room that is not too warm or too cold.
- Count (数) sheep. It's the old trick, and it really works!
- Don't eat a big meal or have coffee. You'd better drink milk.
- Don't run around or exercise three hours before going to bed.

27. What can we learn about melatonin?
- A. It makes us feel tired.                      B. It has nothing to do with our sleep cycle.
C. It helps us fall asleep at night.        D. It stops us from sleeping well as usual.
28. Electronic screens can make us sleep badly because _____.
- A. they make us feel hungry
B. our brains need more time to dream
C. the blue light breaks our sleep cycle
D. they make more melatonin than our bodies need
29. _____ can help us sleep well according to the passage.
- A. Doing something relaxing                      B. Reading an electronic book
C. Drinking coffee or milk                      D. Taking a cold shower
30. Which of the following would be the best title for the passage?
- A. Why Should We Sleep Well?                      B. Sleep Well with Less Screen Time
C. Why is Melatonin important?                      D. Fun Activities to Do Before Bedtime

D

The “city walk” is becoming a fun thing to do in China! In China, a popular mobile app called Xiaohongshu now has many more posts (帖子) about city walks. In fact, there are now seven times more posts about it than there were before!

The “city walk” came from the UK and it’s quite different from a traditional trip. When you go on a city walk, you are not dashing to see famous places like the Great Wall or the Forbidden City. Instead (反而), you can take your time to go around the city slowly on foot, enjoy the local (当地的) ways and traditions, and find cool things you might not notice in the past. A city walk takes you away from the busy tourist places and shopping centres. You can walk into a local street, meet the people of the city and see how they live there. For example, you can see an elderly man playing chess in the park or a group of children playing football on a street corner. What’s more, you can try food at small but real restaurants, and learn more about the city’s history.

People who enjoy city walks are curious (好奇的) and love to explore (探索) a city by walking. In this way, they can really feel and understand the city better. For example, if you take a walk in Chongqing, you can enjoy the beautiful hills that the city is famous for. In Beijing, you can walk through the historic hutongs. You can see the everyday life of the locals and enjoy the buildings.

Young people like the “city walk” more. They want to enjoy their free time and learn new things, even if they’re busy. Walking is a fun way to be alone with your thoughts and it’s good for your health. Like someone famous once said, “Loving yourself is the start of a happy life.” The “city walk” is a good way to start the trip by finding fun in exploring.

34. Where was Xu Xiake born?
 35. What did Xu Xiake's father encourage him to do?
 36. How many provinces did Xu Xiake travel to?
 37. Would you like to be an adventurer? Why or why not? (Please give two reasons.)

题目①

Dear Peter,

I'm so excited you're coming to Beijing this summer! Beijing is a big city with a lot of famous places to visit.

The first place is the Great Wall. It shows how clever Chinese people were long ago. When you walk on it, you can think about the stories in the past. Another place you can visit is the Forbidden City. It's famous for the beautiful buildings and old paintings. You can learn a lot about traditional Chinese culture.

Wish you a great trip!

Yours,

Li Hua

题目②

There are many clubs in my school. I joined two of them, the English Club and the Basketball Club.

I chose the English Club because I wanted to practice English. In the Basketball Club, we always played basketball after school. I joined it to stay healthy and make more friends.

The clubs are not just about having fun. They help me grow and learn new things.
