Henry David Thoreau's Friend: Nature

Henry loves to walk in the forest near his home. He listens to the trees. He watches the rivers. He puts leaves, seeds and flowers into his pockets.

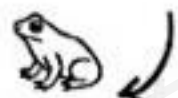

(瓦尔登湖)

Every morning, Henry steps outside and goes to Walden Pond. He walks slowly by the water. He stops and looks around. Skunk cabbages (臭菘) dance in the snow. Tiny ants wake up under warm leaves.

Henry writes what he sees in his notebook. Frogs sing to show spring is coming. Flowers grow on trees. The weather gets warm. The ice melts into water in the rivers.

任务一: 根据短文内容, 选择最佳选项回答问题。

任务二: 根据短文内容, 回答问题。

What photos would you like to take near Walden Pond?

九、阅读, 根据短文信息判断正误。正确的写 "T", 错误的写 "F"。

What are wildfires?

A wildfire is a fire. It burns (燃烧) for a long time in forests, grasslands and other natural places.

Why are wildfires dangerous?

Wildfires can be very dangerous. Wildfires make the air dirty. They can make people and animals sick. The fires burn the plants, so some animals can't find food. In Australia, koalas are badly hurt because they are slow. They can't run away.

How can wildfires help nature?

Wildfires can also be good for nature. The fires can clean up dead (枯萎的) leaves. When old trees burn, the ashes (灰烬) make the ground rich—it becomes healthy and full of good things. These can help young plants to grow fast and strong. After the fires, new green grass and young trees start to grow because sunlight can touch the ground. Some plants need fires to open their seeds. Many animals come back to find food and homes. Wildfires can help the forest start a new life.

- ( ) 1. Wildfires only happen in forests.
( ) 2. Wildfires can make the air dirty.
( ) 3. Some animals can't find food after wildfires.
( ) 4. Koalas are safe because they can run away fast.
( ) 5. Wildfires can make the ground rich and healthy.
( ) 6. New plants can't grow after a wildfire.
( ) 7. Fires can open some plants' seeds.
